PROJECTS

SuperTramp | (React/Redux, Rails 5, CSS/SCSS, PostgreSQL, AJAX, AWS)

live | github

Tribute to popular camping website HipCamp, where users explore various listings across many locations

- Utilized Rails backend to connect with AWS S3 for image cloud storage, to increase application scalability
- Identified real world locations with Google Places Autocomplete API which allowed users to reliably search for campsites based on geolocation
- Constructed validation logic that checks new bookings against existing bookings to prevent double bookings and ensure best user experience
- Improved users booking interface with Airbnb/React-Dates with dynamic form input and frontend level validation logic to ensure logical dates and number of guests are within capacity, without additional database queries
- Created CSS animation frames for a responsive feel and improve user interactivity

Food Harmony | (MongoDB, Express.js, React, Node.js, AWS, Git)

live | github

MERN stack app that curates unique food items based on distance to a restaurant

- Integrated Flickity library which produced an interactive photo carousel to enhance user experience on mobile and desktop platforms
- Installed Multer middleware and AWS S3, to store Food and Restaurant pictures and programmatically assign unique URLs to handle multipart/form-data and improve app scalability
- Maintained public git repository and remotely communicated with associated Software Engineers on smooth git workflow and troubleshooting
- Utilized a masonry style layout to highlight unique aspect ratios and photo perspectives to improve user experience
